

Marina D. Pedersen is a Tax partner based in KPMG's Chicago office. Marina has over 28 years of experience serving clients in the Building, Construction and Real Estate industry. As a member of KPMG's Asset Management practice, she is responsible for providing tax consultation, planning and compliance services to both public and privately held companies, including high net worth individual business owners. In this role, Marina has consulted on many complex transactions which translates into extensive experience dealing with the complicated tax issues related to real estate including due diligence impacting the formation and qualification of Real Estate Investment Trusts (REIT) in connection with initial public offerings and private transactions, tax optimized acquisitions and dispositions and real estate fund structuring. She regularly advises clients on matters related to analyzing the impact of unrelated business taxable income, tax advantaged structuring for tax-exempt and foreign investors, the formation of taxable REIT subsidiaries, representation before the IRS and state and local tax matters. In addition to her client service responsibilities, Marina is a founding and current Steering Committee member of Chicago's KPMG Women in Tax group which focuses on providing networking opportunities, mentorship and professional development to all members of the Tax practice. In addition, Marina actively mentors professionals cross functionally, serves as the lead Business Tax Services (BTS) recruiter at DePaul University and the Chicago Lead BTS recruiter at the University of Wisconsin – Madison. She holds a CPA license in the state of Illinois and is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Illinois Society of Certified Public Accountants. Marina received her Bachelor of Science degree in Accounting and Master of Science degree in Taxation from DePaul University.
